3.0 STUDY BUDDY PROGRAM

The Study-Buddy Program was launched by the International Office to provide information to international newcomers/students, and to help them adjust to their new environment. Every international student is matched with a “Buddy”, i.e. a Tanzanian student who is familiar with the university's structures and is willing to give a helping hand during their stay abroad in Tanzania.

Most of the Tanzania students participating in the Study Buddy Program are aware of the problems that might arise, and therefore may be able to offer possible solutions. Your personal "Study Buddy" can provide you with valuable advice on everyday life in the university. By participating in the Study-Buddy Program, you will not only be able to get a head-start but you will also come into contact with other Tanzanian students more easily. In the past, we have found that the program really helped to foster friendships, mutual understanding, and broadened the cultural horizon of all its participants.

The program's activities also include various events organized by the Nelson Mandela African Institution of Science and Technology Student’s Organization (NM-AIST-SO) which is an excellent opportunity to meet people from all over the world.

4.0 GUIDANCE AND COUNSELING FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

Students with academic, psychological, social and economic problems receive guidance and counselling through the Dean of students’ Office. The department helps students to intensify the capacity of taking rational control over their feelings and actions, to impart them with skills, awareness and knowledge to confront social inadequacies and make their life at NM-AIST campus more comfortable.

NM-AIST recognizes that guidance and counseling is an integral part of the school's existence. It is not limited to the Guidance Office but implies that everyone involved in the school experience of the student has a part in helping him/her develop; hence, the University implements a comprehensive guidance and counseling service to assist students enhance their psychological growth, emotional well-being and learning potentials.
